EATING DISORDERS

When Words Fail: The Use of Food to Express Troubled States of Mind

Instructor: Janet K. Smith, Ph.D.

Saturday, February 27, 2010 in Santa Monica

9:00 a. m. – 12:00 p.m.

This workshop focuses on eating patterns that develop to cope with painful feelings. Anorexia, bulimia and binge eating become “solutions” that function to soothe, calm and control emotions. We will address technique and treatment of eating disorders within the therapeutic relationship.

Janet K. Smith, Ph.D. (PSY 12167) is a psychologist and psychoanalyst at The New Center of Psychoanalysis and the Psychoanalytic Center of California where she teaches in the core program. She teaches Eating Disorders in the NCP Extension certificate program. Dr. Smith has a private practice in West LA and runs groups for women with eating disorders.
